What's a "GPO"?

A Grain Pricing Order is a marketing tool which works on your behalf when you're too busy to pay attention to market swings. It's a firm offer to sell a product at a certain price, at a certain time of the year. For example, in the fall, if you were looking to book forward canola in February at $7.95/bu at the bin, your GPO form would include this information:

Today: Sep 01 2006	Move: 200 MT of canola at
Expiry: Dec 31 2006	$7.95 FOB my farm for the month of February 2007.

The holder of the GPO can then go ahead and sell your canola without consulting you again first. This is especially handy when you're busy seeding, harvesting, or away on vacation. The GPO works great during big market swings.

Crop Year 2005-2006

2005-2006 was another year of low prices and high inputs. Many grain producers of different sized farms and different areas decided to call it quits and one auction house produced their biggest sales catalogue ever. Real estate prices are at all time highs now and have provided the nudge needed for some farmers to get out of agriculture with profit in hand.

But as harvest finished in 2006, grain producers were greeted to a market rally. In fact, during the month of October 2007, feed barley prices climbed an amazing $40.00/MT, close to $0.90 per bushel and, by the beginning of November, producers were able to lock-in 2007 fall barley at $3.30/bu delivered Lethbridge. After a dismal bottom line for 2005-2006 crop production, spirits are up for 2006-2007.

On the horizon, the fate or change of the Canadian Wheat Board looms ahead. Grain farmers are questioning what will happen with milling wheat and malt barley prices while buyers are confident they can give grain farmers more money for their product while, in turn, make more profit themselves. Market Master will have a booth at FarmTech 2007 plus be a featured speaker at the conference. Plus, watch Grainwise for new Market Master grain marketing courses, some designed specifically for the farm spouse or the beginner marketer.
